Kitten and Puppy Season Underway

As 2023, our 26th year begins, we are off to a busy kitten and puppy season.

Velvet (right) arrived just in time to give birth to nine puppies.

All are doing well and will be looking for their forever homes in a couple of months.

Shortly after Platinum (left) arrived, she gave birth to four kittens. They are all doing well and will be looking for their forever homes once they are weaned.

There are many others who will be coming during the next, few months because spaying and neutering are not commonplace in other parts of the country.

Goats Galore

On February 19, 2023, Live and Let Live Farm Rescue received a call from a man in urgent need of someone to rescue 11 pregnant, Nigerian dwarf goats. He and his wife are homeless and she is very ill; therefore, they could no longer care for their animals.

Several LLLF volunteers immediately traveled to Barnstead, NH, and rescued the goats. Upon arrival at LLLF, the goats were placed into quarantine and fed. Unfortunately, one goat was in labor and lost her kid before arriving at the rescue.

We will soon have a large herd of goats and their kids since goats often have twins.

NEWS FROM THE FARM

Bebe's Tale

Bebe is a 13-year-old, pregnant Lab mix rescued by Live and Let Live Farm volunteers.

One morning she woke her owner who noticed that she was immersed in blood and fluids. They were homeless and requested our help to care for Bebe.

LLLF volunteers brought Bebe to a veterinarian who confirmed pregnancy with a sonogram that showed 4-6 puppies. She was diagnosed with UTI and parasitic infections. Bebe also tested positive for heartworm, which further complicated her pregnancy. These conditions would be challenging for a young, pregnant dog, but overwhelming for a dog of her advanced age.

A few weeks later, Bebe had her first puppy at 5 am and the second was not born until noon. She did not have the strength to deliver any more.

An ultrasound showed two more puppies waiting to be born. Therefore, she needed an emergency C-section to save them. Bebe was exhausted after her lengthy ordeal, but quickly showed loving, maternal instincts.

Bebe's family has since grown to seven puppies. A dog with eight puppies was killed by a car and five did not survive. Volunteers introduced the three remaining puppies to Bebe who quickly accepted them as her own.

Senior Bebe has a long road ahead of her, but with our continued care, she will get the loving, forever home in the future that she deserves.

Holiday Craft Fair

Homes of NH Realty, Londonderry, NH, hosted a holiday craft fair for Live and Let Live Farm Rescue on December 2-3, 2022. Cheryl Waitt, broker/owner, donated her office suite to us.

There were games, puzzles, porcelain dolls and figurines, paintings, prints, logowear, calendars, books, and many handmade and holiday items displayed throughout the venue. All proceeds benefitted the animals at LLLF.

We hope to make this fair an annual event thanks to the kindness and generosity of Cheryl.

Made in New England

Live and Let Live Farm Rescue participated in the Made in New England Expo on December 3-4, 2023, at the DoubleTree by Hilton in Manchester, NH.

This event attracts a lot of visitors every year; and provides a great awareness opportunity for the rescue.

Our animals were very popular with children and adults with many stopping by to pet them.

We will be at the Made in NH Expo on April 14-16, 2023, at the DoubleTree in Manchester, NH. Come by and see us!

NH. Come by and see us!

Wild, Wild West

A taste of the old west is now at the rescue. A stagecoach and horse grace the landscape adjacent to the memorial garden. They are from an estate collection of metal sculptures.

What You Can Do Today

- Make a tax-free donation at www.liveandletlivefarm.org or send your check to Live and Let Live Farm, Inc., 20 Paradise Lane, Chichester, NH 03258.
